

Russian → English ▾

АФИНСКИЕ НОВОСТИ

HOME / NEWS / HISTORY, CULTURE, EDUCATION, SPORTS, RELIGION

Search...

A video of naked people dancing was shown in a Catholic church in Austria.

01/26/24 17:03 AUTHOR PAVEL ONOIKO 👁 2832

On January 23, 2024, in a Catholic church in Bad Ischl in Austria, a video of naked people dancing was shown above the altar.

“ Social media users called the nude dancing a “sick” and “decadent” spectacle. However, according to the priest of the RCC from the city of Rad-Ishl, there is “no problem” with such dances.

During a “cultural” event held in the open air in Bad Ischl, several people danced naked. While dancing, they sprinkled baby powder on their naked bodies, resulting in their performance being advertised as a "powder dance."

Commentators on social media called the spectacle "sick" and "decadent." However, this “performance” was well received by the Catholic parish in honor of St. Nicholas in Bad Ischl.

Local priest Christian Ehler installed a large screen above the main altar on which the “powder dancing” was broadcast live to parishioners. According to Ehler, there is “no problem” with all this, since, in his words, “Jesus is the most frequently depicted nude person.”

Read Athens News on Google News (click 'Subscribe')

Tags: Catholics, temple, nudity,

SIMILAR NEWS:

The fire did not spare the Holy Church of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary

Metropolitan Seraphim spoke out against celebrating Easter together with Catholics

Canadian writer: “The Pope should save not the climate, but souls”

Vandals desecrated a Greek temple

Archaeologists have apparently found the lost temple of Poseidon

In Santorini, 13 nuns pray for the whole world

Share link:

About how to share

Due to massive violations of the rules, all comments are pre-moderated.