Another Syllabus Journal entry, we discuss the little known society within the globalist apparatus called the Club of Rome. This powerful elitist think tank has produced many of the doctrines of climate change ideology and introduced the current environmentalist fanaticism and imparted the intense propaganda within public class rooms in the 1980s which now shapes our modern perspective.

The presupposition that the planet is in crisis and that common people everywhere need to give up their personal freedoms and constitutionally protected rights in order to "Save the Earth" are ideological devices created by the Club of Rome. The ideals that attempt to shut down human development and progress in the name of sustaining the environment are invented by the same regressive forces of imperialism and monarchy that western democracies and popular government have always understood as enemies.

Those champions of European aristocracy and nobility, especially the Vatican are now presenting global warming and pollution concerns as the primary motivating factor for removing national sovereignty and political liberty from nation states. Global governance and international law are now the central mechanism of the global elite who intend to bankrupt the world and introduce population control on the all the people of the world.

These globalist strategies being foisted on American by the United Nations are designed to destroy American prosperity and independence. Global treaties and climate accords along with global taxation on businesses are the initial shots fired in this struggle to claim hegemony over the environment, i.e. the face of the earth and remove the prerogative of democratic institutions and republican government in order to submit them and the freemen within those countries to the new international order.
